

THE LYONS DEN

By LEONARD LYONS

CRIME DEPT.: Emmet Hughes and Peter Maas went by train to Washington recently, to attend a White House party. Each was reading an Ian Fleming paperback on international intrigue. They interrupted their reading to play a game of Gin Rummy, and another game of Casting an International thriller from among the passengers. "And there's our Spy-type," said Hughes. . . . They took a closer look at the man. It was Allen Dulles.
